Legislative Update – HB 775 and SB 401

We wanted to make you aware that we are opposing HB 775 and SB 401. These bills would allow homeschool students to compete in adjacent school districts if their home district doesn't allow homeschool participation in athletics. As written, they would undermine UIL residency and transfer rules — rules that are critical to protecting the integrity and fairness of school athletics across Texas.

We're asking lawmakers to add protective language to make sure UIL residency and transfer rules stay intact. This would guarantee that all students — homeschooled or not — have to meet the same participation requirements, keeping a level playing field for everyone.

We're also working closely with athletic directors and coaches whose lawmakers sit on the House Public Education Committee to make sure they hear directly from those of us who believe in protecting fair play.

Thank you for trusting us to bring you the latest updates and to advocate for what's best for our student-athletes and school communities.

We'll continue to monitor the movement of these bills closely, and if we need you to take action, we'll be in touch. We'll also keep you updated as things develop.
